What Happens At Your Event?

On the day, your event will begin with a short introduction given by your activity host. They will explain how the event will run before giving you a chance to sample a range of different fragrances. They will also explain the meaning and effect behind each one, as well as some fun facts about some of the world's most famous perfume brands.

During the activity, you will get to mix and blend your favourite samples to create a completely new and unique perfume of your own. Not only is it an activity that the ladies will love, but the range of fragrances available to use are suitable for men as well.

At the end of the day, everyone will get to name their new perfume before taking home a sample bottle for themselves. So if you're looking to inspire some creativity from your team, this is a great activity to consider for your next team building day.
