What happens at your event?

The experience will begin with a short briefing on how the day will run. The co-ordinator will split the room up into smaller teams and hand out activity booklets and kits to each team. Inside these books are a list of challenges and tasks, each worth different amounts of points and varying in difficulty.

A large clock will be projected onto a screen that everyone can see, indicating how much time each team has to complete their list of challenges chosen from the book. Teams will then need to bring out their time-keeping and collaboration skills to solve as many as they can in a bid to win the most points. Throughout the activity, your co-ordinator will ring the bell. When this happens, you'll need to drop everything and switch to a new bonus challenge in a bid to win extra points and soar past the other teams on the leaderboard.
