What happens at your event?

The event begins with a welcome from your event manager, followed by an introduction from your chosen charity outlining the impact your team's work will have. After a demonstration of the restoration techniques, the group splits into smaller teams, each responsible for transforming a piece of furniture. No experience is needed, and your event manager is on hand throughout to guide and support teams as they sand, paint, decorate and upcycle their items.

Interactive team games are woven in throughout the day to maintain energy and add fun, as teams collaborate, share ideas and compete for the top spot. Once complete, the furniture is judged, medals are awarded, and all items are delivered directly to your chosen charity. A post-event impact report is also provided, highlighting the difference made.

Frequently Asked Questions

? What is the Charity Furniture Restoration team building activity?

Charity Furniture Restoration is a hands-on team building activity where your group upcycles pieces of furniture to donate to a local cause. The event runs for three hours and includes a welcome chat, a word from the charity, a demonstration of techniques, team games throughout, medals for the best group and a post-event impact report. We deliver the finished furniture to the charity after the event.

? What's included in Charity Furniture Restoration?

The event includes a hosted event manager, a demonstration of restoration techniques, one piece of furniture per group to upcycle, team games, aprons and floor coverings, medals for the best group, delivery of the finished furniture to the charity, a post-event impact report and public liability insurance.

? Do we need any experience to take part?

No. No restoration skills or prior experience are needed. The event manager runs a demonstration of techniques at the start, so everyone knows exactly what they're doing before they get stuck in. It works just as well for people who have never picked up a paintbrush as it does for those who have.

Charity Furniture Restoration works for groups of 5 to 100 people. Get in touch with your numbers and we'll confirm the right setup and venue for your team.

? What happens to the furniture after the event?

We arrange delivery of all the restored furniture to your chosen charity after the event. You'll also receive a post-event impact report so your team can see the difference the day made.
