What happens at your event?

On the day, your event will begin with an introduction from your Maori warrior hosts who will explain how the day will run before going into the fascinating history behind this traditional dance routine. They will perform the full routine for you all to enjoy before participants get to join in and learn the moves and steps at a suitable pace.

When you've all had plenty of time to practice, it will be time to put what you've learnt to the test with one big performance at the end of the event. Not only will participants have lots of fun with this activity, but it's also a great way to break the ice between colleagues, especially if it's a brand new team that aren't familiar with each other yet.
