What happens at your event?

Your event will begin with an introduction given by your activity host. They will run-through how the event will run before giving you a chance to sample a range of fragrances and explain the characteristics and effect of each one. They will also share fun facts about some of the world's most famous perfume brands.

During the activity, you will get to mix and blend your favourite samples to create a completely new and unique perfume of your own. Not only is it an activity that the ladies will love, but the range of fragrances available to use are suitable for men as well.

At the end of the day, everyone will get to name their new perfume before taking home a sample bottle for themselves. So if you're looking to inspire some creativity from your team, this is a great activity to consider for your next team building day.

Just some of our happy clients...
